If You Are a Latinx Ally

Educate family members about African roots in Latin America

Bring visibility to Black latinxs

Support organizations and activist that fight anti-blackness

Support policy changes that could help combat structural racism in policing

Read up about anti-blackness in Latinx communities

Analyze and question your deep rooted beliefs and those of your family

Reach out to the Black folxs in your life and provide them support

Stop expecting Black folxs to take on the labor of education you and do that yourself.

If You Are an Undocumented Ally @ Rally

There are ways to stay safe and vigilant while protesting. Also keeping in mind that putting pressure on a state and system not designed to protect you may have consequences. It is our shared responsibility to keep each other safe. Keep in mind there may be undocumented people at your protest and take necessary precautions.

Physical Safety

Write this number on your arm, call for an attorney if you or someone you know gets arrested 1-833-3-GOODCALL or National Lawyers Guild 212-679-6018. In RI call Center for Justice @ (401) 491-1101 ext. 801

Carry water and spare cash. Use Saline without alcohol or milk of magnesia without flavor for tear gas.

There are other ways to support if protesting isn't right for you. Donating, fundraising, boosting links, donating materials, dropping off supplies. Be someones check in person. Inform others of their rights.

Digital Safety

Leave your phone at home if you can. If not, leave it on airplane mode.
Cover your face

If you take photos try to delete them or crush the SD card if arrested.

Use signals to communicate with friends and coordinate meet up ocations and escape plans
